WAR-PARTY

AN UNEASY PEACE HAD SETTLED OVER THE COMANCHE TERRITORY...BUT ANY SPARK COULD START THE FLAMES OF WAR RACING ACROSS THE PRAIRIE ONCE MORE! AND THAT SPARK WAS GLOWING HOT AND DANGEROUS AS THE RENEGADE WAR PARTY SWEEPED DOWN ON THE SOLDIERS GUARDING THE BULLION WAGONS!

STOP! YOUR CHIEF WILL PUNISH YOU FOR THIS!

WHITE MAN'S GOLD WILL BUY MANY GUNS!

GET HIM, BAD FOX! HE'S TRYING TO GET US ALL IN TROUBLE!

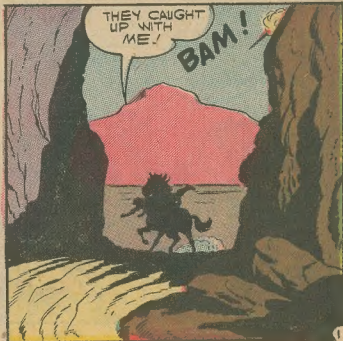

CHEYENNE JONES, CALLED THE CHEYENNE KID FROM ONE END OF THE FRONTIER TO THE OTHER, HAD HEARD OF TROUBLE NEAR COMANCHE GAP

LOOKS PLUMB PEACEFUL -- BUT THERE'S BEEN INDIANS TRAILING ME ALL MORNING!

THEY CAUGHT UP WITH ME!

BAM!

CHEYENNE KID

NOT SO FAST, INJUN! I'M NOT THAT EASY TO FINISH OFF! YOU'RE GOIN' TO ANSWER SOME QUESTIONS!

WHY ARE YOU ON THE WAR PATH? WHO IS YOUR WAR CHIEF?

NO SPEAK WHITE TONGUE! ME GOOD GOVERNMENT INDIAN!

THE WARRIOR WOULDN'T TALK... BUT CHEYENNE LEARNED A LOT WITHOUT WORDS. HE WAS A RENEGADE...

YOU ARE A RENEGADE! GO--RETURN TO YOUR TRIBE AND TAKE THE PUNISHMENT YOUR CHIEF WILL METE OUT!

LATER, CHEYENNE RODE INTO CLARKE'S FORD. HE SPOTTED RIZ EWELL, A FRONTIER HARDCASE IMMEDIATELY! EWELL KNEW CHEYENNE TOO...

TOWN'S PRETTY FULL! GOT SOME SALTY LOOKIN' RIDERS BEDDIN' DOWN HERE.

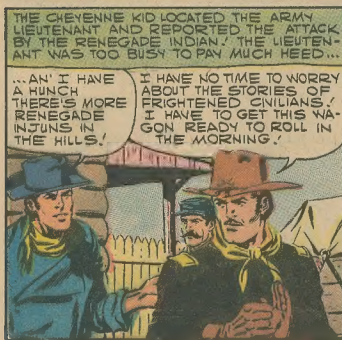

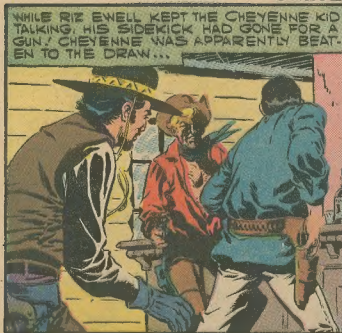

PLEASE, MISTER! GO GAB ELSEWHERE! I DON'T WANT TROUBLE!

YUH DON'T THINK WE'RE NICE ENOUGH HERE? MAYBE YOU DON'T LIKE ME, CHEYENNE?

NOW THAT YOU MENTION IT, EWELL, NO, I DON'T LIKE YOU AND NEVER WILL!

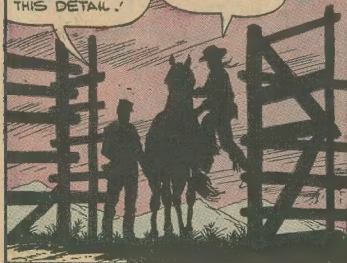

CHEYENNE KID

CHEYENNE KID

I SURE HOPE THE
LIEUTENANT DON'T RATTLE EASY!
THERE'S ONLY SIX OF US ON THIS DETAIL!

MAKE IT SEVEN,
SERGEANT! YOU
WON'T SEE ME,
BUT I'LL BE AROUND!

THE CHEYENNE KID MADE A COLD CAMP
THAT NIGHT ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE RIVER! HE WAS READY AND WAITING AS THE SUN CAME UP...

EWELL'S GANG RODE
BY LAST NIGHT!
THEY'LL BE WAITIN'
FOR THE GOLD
SHIPMENT-- AND I'LL THINK
I'LL KNOW WHERE!

COMANCHE PASS IS UP AHEAD!
THAT'S WHERE EWELL'S GANG
WILL BE HOLED UP!

FORWAAARRRD
HO!

INDIANS! HALT
THE ... COLUMN
AND FALL BACK TO THE WAGONS!
QUICKLY, MEN!

AND THEN THE RENEGADE INDIANS ATTACK-
ED! THE LIEUTENANT, INEXPERIENCED AND WOUNDED, FOUGHT WELL...

Gold in the Gulch

It is very simple to state that gold was found in California. Millions of people all over the world wanted to hear about it. Also about the conditions of travel, what they could expect, and what was happening to the people who already landed in California. So Horace Greenly sent out a young man to tell the folks about this land of golden opportunity. Bayard Taylor enjoyed travelling as much as he did writing. So out to the great unknown West he went. Gather around him and let him tell us just a wee bit of what he saw in the California of 1849.

"As we came off the scorching calm of the plain into the shadow of the trees, we discerned two tents ahead on a gentle knoll. This was the camp of Major Graham, who commanded the expedition sent from Monterrey, Mexico, overland into California, in the summer of 1848. He was employing a little time, before returning home, in speculating on his own account and had established himself near Stockton with a large herd of horses and cattle on which he was making good profits.

Lieutenant Beale was an old acquaintance of the Major's, and as friends of the former we were made equally welcome. We found him sitting on a camp stool, outside the tent, wearing a hunting jacket and broad brimmed white hat. With a prompt hospitality that would take no denial, he ordered our mules driven out to his caballada, had our packs piled high up in the shade of one of his oaks, and gave directions for our dinner. For four days thereafter we saw the stars through his treetops, between our dreams and shared the abundant fare of his camp table. Varying the delightful repose of such life by an occasional gallop into Stockton. Mr. Callahan, an old settler, who pitched his tent near Major Graham's, went out every morning to hunt elk and we were daily supplied with steaks and cutlets.

In the early morning the elk might be seen in bands of forty or fifty, grazing on the edge of the marshes. There they were sometimes lassoed by the native vaqueros and taken into Stockton. We saw the coyotes occasionally prowling along the margin of the land. But they took good care to sneak off before a chance could be had to shoot them. Our first visit to Stockton was made in company, on some of Major Graham's choicest horses. A mettled roan canalo fell to my share. The gallop of five miles without check was most inspiring.

A view of Stockton was something to be remembered. There, in the heart of California, where the last winter stood a solitary ranch in the midst of tule marshes, I found a canvass town of a thousand inhabitants. And a port with twenty vessels at anchor. The mingled noises of labor around, the click of hammers, and the grating of saws, the shouts of mule driver, the jingling of spurs, almost made me believe this was an old town.

I enjoyed my days at Major Graham's camp. After discussing further plans it was decided to visit the Mokelumne Diggings which were the most accessible from Stockton. Accordingly, on Monday morning, our mules were driven in from the plain and saddled for the journey. The sun was shining hotly as we rode over the plain to Stockton. And the tent streets of the miraculous town glowed like the avenues of a brick kiln. The thermometer stood at 98 degrees. The parched, sandy soil burnt through our very boot soles. We therefore determined to wait till evening before starting for another stage to the Mokelumne.

Mr. Raney who had just established a line of conveyance to the Mokelumne, kindly offered to accompany us as far as his ranch on the Calaveras River, twenty four miles distant. We started at four o'clock, when a pleasant breeze had sprung up and rode on over the level plain. We reached Mr. Raney's ranch and gave our tired mules a good feed of barley. And after an excellent supper which he had prepared, betook ourselves to rest. The tent was made of saplings roofed with canvass. But had cost $1,000.

While waiting for breakfast I saw a curious example of the careless habits of miners in regard to money. One of the mule drivers wanted to buy a pistol which had belonged to another. As the article was in reality worth next to nothing, offered him three dollars for it. "I will sell nothing for such a beggarly sum," said the owner, "You are welcome to take the pistol." The other took it, but laid the three dollars on a log, saying, "You must take it, for I shall never touch it again." "Well" was the reply, "then I'll do what I please with it." And he flung the dollars into the road and walked away.

Leaving the ranch soon after sunrise, we entered the hills. The country was dotted with picturesque clumps of oaks. Trails of deer could be seen on all the hills. After traveling about fourteen miles we were joined by three miners.

And our mules, taking a sudden liking for their horses, jogged on at a more brisk rate. We took a turn from the main road and took a faint trail leading over the hills to the Lower Bar. Coming down the almost perpendicular side of the hill, my saddle began to slip over the mule's straight shoulders. Dismounting, I waded the rest of the way knee deep in mud.

Near the bottom we came upon the Sonorian Town as it was called, from the number of Mexican miners camped there. The place, which was a regularly laid out town of sapling houses, without walls and roofed with loose oak boughs, had sprung up in the wilderness in three weeks. There were probably three hundred persons living in or near it.

We met Baptiste Perrot, a mountaineer. He kept a hotel, which was an open space under a branch roof. The appliances were two tables of rough plank with logs resting on forked limbs as seats. We tied up our mules to a stump in the rear of the hotel, hastened to supper, and made ourselves entirely at home. Our first move was for the river bottom where a number of Americans, Sonorians, Kanakas and French were at work in the hot sun.

The bar as it was called, was nothing more nor less than a level space at the junction of the river with a dry arroyo which winds for about eight miles around the hills. It was hard and rocky, with no loose sand except such as had lodged between the large masses of stone. And which must, of course, be thrown aside to get at the gold. The whole space, containing about four acres, appeared to have been turned over with great labor. No spot could appear more unpromising to the inexperienced gold hunter.

Yet the Sonorians, washing out the loose dust and dirt which they scraped out from the rocks, obtained from $10 to two ounces daily. The first party we saw had just succeeded in cutting a new channel for the shrunken waters of the Mokelumne. They were commencing operations on about twenty yards of the river-bed which they laid bare. They were ten in number. Their only implements were shovels, a rude cradle for the top layer of earth, and flat wooden bowls for washing out the sands. The company had made in the forenoon about three pounds of gold.

We watched other miners. Then we returned to eat. There, in the rough depth of the hills, where three weeks before there was scarcely a tent, we expected to live on jerked beef and bread. We saw on our table green corn, green peas and beans, fresh oysters, roast turkey, fine Goshen butter and excellent coffee. I will not pretend to say what it cost. But it was a delicious meal.

I slept soundly that night on the dining table. And I went down early to the river. There I found the party of ten bailing out the water which had leaked into the river bed during the night. When I went there again towards noon, one of the men had a two ounce lump of gold. Their forenoon's diggings amounted to six pounds of gold. If anyone expects to dig treasures out of the earth in California, without severe labor, he is sadly mistaken. Of all the classes of men, those who pave streets and quarry limestone are best adapted for gold-diggers.

The word "gulch" which in general use throughout the diggings, may not be familiar to many ears. It denotes a mountain ravine, more steep, abrupt and inaccessible. Different than other gulches. There are thousands of similar gulches among the mountains, nearly all of which undoubtedly contain gold. Those who are familiar with geology, rarely fail in the selection of new spots for diggings. It is only those who are deceived in their extravagant hopes of quick riches that get bitter. There was no end to the stories told by the diggers of their experiences in gold hunting. Maybe some time in the future I will tell you some of these. However, the largest piece found in the rich gulch weighed eleven pounds."

Don't hurry and pack your stuff to look for gold in California. Remember this all happened a bit more than a century ago.

The "handpicked" expert authors include lawyers, C.P.A.'s, Associate and Full Professors of leading colleges, instructors from Princeton, De Paul, City College of New York, Rutgers and many others.

Best of all, you never have to buy any materials or extra books or outlines to round out your courses. Each MADE SIMPLE volume is complete in itself. They start from the beginning, assume no previous knowledge of the material and lead you quickly and carefully through every phase of the subject.

Complete Explanations, Simple Illustrations Make Every Point Clear—No Previous Knowledge of the Subject Required

Let's look at one of the books and see how the MADE SIMPLE method makes every point absolutely clear by using simple, everyday illustrations and examples.

In PHYSICS MADE SIMPLE, in the section on air pressure, you see the experiment which you can do right now in your own home. "Hold one edge of a piece of letter paper against your chin just below your lower lip, with the paper hanging over and down. If you now blow above the paper, it will rise to a horizontal position as if pulled upward in the air stream." By using only a piece of paper, you have performed an experiment that demonstrates the important principles involved in light and aerostatics.

It's as easy as that! In other books, you would first "plough through" Bernoulli's Law, Boyle's Law and other technical terms. Here, however, you read a simple explanation, do an interesting experiment and learn the required technical terms. As a result they will mean something to you. That's why the MADE SIMPLE method has worked for thousands of people who needed more help than you may think you do. You would expect to pay three to four dollars apiece for these 8 1/2 x 11 1/2 inch beautifully bound, richly stamped library volumes. But if you take advantage of this amazing FREE offer, you pay only $1.98 per volume. You can stop whenever you want. Meanwhile you are building a permanent reference set for your home—a handsome educational "tool" the whole family will use again and again.
